

What's New and What's Coming Next

I am releasing my latest novel, Water to Water, through my imprint Oblique Angles Press on October 17, 2018. Like my Twin-Bred series, Water to Water involves aliens – but unlike the aliens in Twin-Bred, they have never heard of Earth or humans, and vice-versa.

This time I hired a designer I've admired for years, Damonza, for the cover, which others seem to love as much as I do.

I am juggling several ideas for my next National Novel Writing Month project. Two are near-future science fiction, like my previous novels Division, Playback Effect, Who, and The Link, while one would be a major departure – a combination of historical fiction, mystery, and romance. Stay tuned!

In December, I expect to return to revising another near-future story, one for which I'm barely staying ahead of the deadlines. I'm keeping that one under wraps for now. ☺